

227

Please address to

Observatory. Redhill
Reigate. England.

1858 March 18

My dear Sir

Your letter gave me the greatest pleasure.

So soon as you have actually finished a few results I should like you to send me

one, to see if I can make any useful suggestion. It is necessary on all occasions

427

to make sketches more or less exact of the spots indicating thus
the points taken & the size of the nuclei.

You will also find it convenient in checking
results to commence
each set as nearly as possible on the same second 4 minutes after the one preceding, by waiting about 20 seconds between each passage.

This is all I will say
at present in addition.

The Man eliper was lost, I believe everywhere, by cloudy weather.

I hoped to have been able to tell you some news about it, but no.

I wrote immediately to General Sabine according to your wish & I have no doubt he is attending to your request though I have not yet received an answer from him. When he writes, if he should reply to you through me, I will lose no

time in forwarding
his answer.

I am dear Sir

Yours faithfully

R. C. Carrington

Gay Beech